DEATH OF HEFFRAM T, DAVIES

Had Many Friends in This Part of the City-Robert Morris Lodge of Ivorites Will Entertain Tonight-Guests at Bortree Residence.

At a few minutes before 5 o'clock yes terday morning, Heffram T. Davies, an aged and much respected resident of the West Side, died at the home of street, where he had been a boarder for the past eighteen years. The cause of death was miners' asthma, with which Mr. Davies had been troubled for many years. Deceased was born in Wales, and came to this country about twenty-five years ago, residing in Scranton since his arrival.

He was well known, and his manly qualities won for him numerous friends. Mr. Davies was employed previous to his death in the Capouse mines. He was a member of the Capouse Mine Ac cidental fund. The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon from Mr. Peters' home. Interment will be made in the Washburn Street cemetery.

Of Chauncey Olcott, who appears at the Academy of Music tonight in "The Irish Artist," the New York Recorder says: "Chauncey Olcott, the sweetvoiced singer and comedian, has made hit of large proportions at the Fourteenth Street theatre as Maurice Cronin in 'The Irish Artist,' and is drawing the largest audiences known at this house in a long time. At the opening performance people were turned away from the box office, unable to secure seats, and since that time the same state of affairs has existed. 'The Irish Artist' is a picturesque play, and the singing of Mr. Olcott is one of its strongest features. His songs are encored over and over again at every per-

The Sans Souci Concert hall, with Tom Gould himself on the stage, is one of the most attractive scenes in the great moral melodrama by Edmund E. Price, entitled "In the Tenderloin." This is perhaps because music and dancing are predominant. Some clever ocal specialties are presented by that favorite minstrel comedian, Frank Cushman; some marvelous dancing. etc., is executed by Miss Gussie Hart, whose impersonation of a quick-witted colored girl is remarkably, life-like; Mr. Dick Quilter, late of Harrigan's forces, also contributes his share to the festivities, and Mr. John Page is exceedingly happy in his selections, rang-ing from the sentiment of "The Last Lullaby," to the break-neck excitement of an acrobatic song and dance. In the purely dramatic portion Mr. Frederick Bryton as the leading character is superb. "In the Tenderloin" will be at the Frothingham this evening. Clever comedians of the Joe Ott chool are as rare as June roses in January. This ideal entertainer scored a great success in "The Star Gazer," his new play that made such a hit when presented at the Academy a couple of weeks ago, so much so that he has been secured for a return date at the Academy tomorrow night. He will be assisted by the same clever company, including his two clever brothers, Matt and Phil, and the other clever capables Police Officer Hezeklah Peters, on Price who ably assisted in the merriment that in the Twentieth Ward cemetery. W. H. Power's famous play, "The Ivy Leaf," will be presented at the Frothingham Friday and Saturday evenings and Saturday matinee. "The Ivy Leaf" has been seen in this city on previous censions, and is a great favorite with Scranton theatre-goers. The interest in the play is strong and is well sustained throughout the three acts. The flight of the eagle across the stage and the revolving tower are sensational features of "The Ivy Leaf."

(Under this heading short letters of in-terest will be published when accompa-nied, for publication, by the writer's name. The Tribune will not be held re-sponsible for opinions here expressed.)

Statement of Mr. Cobb.

Editor of The Tribune. Sir-Please allow me a little space in your valuable paper in order that I may contradict part of an article headed, "Those Dismissed Pupils," in your issue of Dec. 22. The part I wish to contradict is that portion of Miss Bolce's report which says that Catherine Cobb, together with others named, were dismissed on Dec. 13, when in fact my daughter had left school four weeks previously and had accepted a clerkship in the city. Her retirement was caused solely by the impartiality shown among pupils. This in itself puts Miss Bolce's statement in the light of a falsehood and is, of course, the one thing that prompts me to take this means to set my daughter right before the public. Yours respectfully, Samuel S. Cobb.

In a short time came the offer of a reportorial position on the Constitution from Henry W. Grady. This Mr. Stanton declined, and it was not until the death of Mr. Grady that he accepted, through the influence of Mr. Harris, an editorial position on that paper. From then on his popularity has been on the increase, till he is known and read in two hemispheres. Though our poet is by no means without honor in his own country, it is from distant places that the most flattering testimonials come. In Paris his genius has been recog-nized and complimented, while in En-land he has made a place for himself in the hearts of the people. Jerome's magazine copies his verses regularly, and he often receives personal letters from English readers who have heard the echo of his songs across the seas. In a recent meeting of London authors Mr. Stanton's little ballad, "Claf .se," was read. Those who know the gem can appreciate the reception it received. When, in reply to a question, the name of the author was given, one of the number exclaime enthusiastically : Well, he has beaten Dobson on his own

So far Mr. Stanton has been known chiefly through current lite. 'ure, as only a small collection of his poems has yet apeared. Though this work passed through several editions and won a success unhoped for by its modest author, he has allowed three years to pass without coming before the public again. except through periodicals. That he is eminently a song writer is attested by the fact that as many as seventy of his poems have been set to music in England and America within the past

USEFUL DEAFNESS.

In This Instance, However, the Infirmity Cost a Quarter.

From the Pittsburg Dispatch. "There is an advantage in being deaf if you only know the exact time not to hear," said L. T. Salignac, of Philadelphia, yesterday, "but the difficulty is to discriminate just when that time is. I have a friend who made, or rather tried to make, capital out of the misfortune nature had sent upon him, but he was continually making mistakes. Being a politician, as any of that kin knows, he met with plenty of instances where it was advisable not to hear. My friend ran for governor of Mary land once, and, while he was defeated, he was extremely popular and well known all over the state, from the urchin in the gutter to the millionaire in his palace. "I went fishing down in the Delaware Bay one summer with him, and the boat made a landing at one of the towns on our way down. He was no sooner seen than a chorus greeted him from the wharf with 'Hallo, guvner.' He acknowledged the compliment with a gracefu ltip of the hat. As we walked down the gangplank one fellow, a little more obtrusive than the rest, pushed his way up to the side of my friend and bellowed out, knowing the falling in his hearing: 'Say, guyner, old man, can't you loan me a quarter?' 'Of course, this was one of the occasions upon which my friend's auricular organs failed to perform their duty. He walked on as if he had not heard a word, while to my invitation to take a drink, given in a moderate tone of voice, he gave a ready assent.
